2. Supervision

Name of the Supervisor:	Ms. Charlotte Cans
Title of the Supervisor:	Head of Strategic Communications

3. Background information

OCHA mobilizes and coordinates principled international humanitarian responses to address the needs of affected people in partnership with government, United Nations and NGO partners.

OCHA Ethiopia is headed by a Head of Office and has two Deputy Heads of Office. There are six units that include Planning & Coordination, Information Management, Strategic Communications, Access, Admin & Finance and Humanitarian Financing. Each of the units is headed by an international staff.

The Strategic Communications Unit (SCU) in Addis Ababa, where the fellow will be based, comprises two national staff and an international staff. The fellow will be closely working with colleagues in the SCU in Addis Ababa, Information Management Unit, Planning and Coordination Unit, Senior management and field offices across Ethiopia, operational partners and clusters within the humanitarian community, communications colleagues in other UN/NGOs, and media.

4. Duties, responsibilities and output expectations:

Within the framework of the Fellowships Programme for Technical Cooperation Capacity Building and Human Resources Development, the candidate will perform the following duties:

Support the advocacy and visibility efforts of OCHA and humanitarian partners in-country by designing, producing, and disseminating a wide range of communication and public information products that highlight humanitarian needs and response efforts across the country.

This includes the development and production of compelling multimedia assets, such as text, photo, and video materials, for use across digital platforms, social media channels, and traditional media outlets.

The role involves ensuring impactful and consistent messaging, visual coherence, and alignment with OCHA's global communication standards, while highlighting the impact of humanitarian operations and amplifying the voices of affected communities.

Key responsibilities include:

- Identify, research, and produce human-interest and impact stories that illustrate humanitarian needs and response.
- Develop compelling narratives and scripts for multimedia content and advocacy campaigns around thematic humanitarian priorities, key publications (such as the Ethiopia Humanitarian Response Plan) and key events, such as World Humanitarian Day.
- Edit and produce film, photo, and audio content, ensuring adherence to ethical and safeguarding standards.
- Design and produce social media materials such as cards, carousels, infographics, and short videos.
- Coordinate with OCHA field offices and cluster partners to gather visuals, data, and stories from across regions.
- Monitor media and social media coverage, compile analytics, and contribute to reporting on communication impact.
- Uphold protection, data privacy, and ethical standards in all communications featuring affected people.

5. Qualifications and Experience

Education

Advanced university degree in communications, journalism, media studies or related field.

Work experience

- One year of experience in communications, media, journalism or related field.
- Experience working in sensitive and fast-moving communications, advocacy and/or fundraising contexts, would be an asset.
- Strong editorial judgement, including ethical, and socio-political awareness.
- Ability to work with multi-cultural teams.
- Experience in social media content design and creation, including familiarity with digital storytelling, short-form video, and visual communication, ideally tailored for humanitarian or development contexts.
- Practical and technical skills in filming and photography would be an asset.

- Ability to develop creative and engaging multimedia materials (graphics, carousels, short videos, reels, and written posts) for various platforms such as X/Twitter, Instagram, Facebook, and LinkedIn.
- Experience with content planning, analytics, and community engagement is an asset.
- A non-professional or personal portfolio demonstrating creativity, design sense, and storytelling ability is also welcome and will be considered.

8. Living conditions in the country

Ethiopia has a relatively stable political situation in the capital, Addis Ababa, where most UN offices and international organizations are based. The city is home to the African Union and numerous diplomatic missions, ensuring a diverse international presence.

Accommodation & Utilities:

Comfortable housing is available, with access to electricity, water, and internet, though occasional interruptions may occur.

Health Services:

There are several reputable medical facilities and private clinics in Addis Ababa, however, the quality and availability of services may vary outside the capital.

Transport:

Local ride-hailing services (e.g., Ride, Feres) are commonly used. While public transportation is available, it may not meet international standards. Official travel is usually arranged by the host office.

Safety and Security:

Addis Ababa is generally safe with standard precautions. The United Nations Department for Safety and Security (UNDSS) provides regular security briefings and updates to ensure UN personnel are well-informed and prepared.

Climate:

The climate in Addis is mild year-round due to its high altitude. Other regions may experience more extreme temperatures.

Language & Culture:

Ethiopia is rich in history and cultural heritage. The local population is hospitable, and there are numerous opportunities for cultural exploration. English is widely spoken in professional settings, although Amharic is the official language.
