3. Background information

UNDP started its operations in Tanzania after signing of Standard Basic Assistance Agreement (SBAA) with the Government in 30th May 1978. The overall focus for UNDP in Tanzania is to support the Government of Tanzania to improve lives of the people through strategic programmatic areas of inclusive democratic governance, inclusive economic growth and sustainable livelihoods and environment sustainability, climate change and resilience.

As one of the original eight pilot countries for the UN Reform initiative Delivering as One, Tanzania is a global leader in advancing reforms of the UN system, with a view to support accelerated harmonization in implementation practices, coherence in programming, and alignment with national systems, intended to produce a reduction in transaction costs and enhanced development impact. The collaboration between the Government of Tanzania and UN agencies has led to the formulation of the United Nations Sustainable Development Cooperation Framework (UNSDCF) 2022–2027 that supports coordinated efforts to advance national priorities and shared development.

In 2025, UNDP supported by the UN Peace and Development Trust Fund—the Secretary General’s Peace and Security Sub-Fund, has officially launched the second phase of the Dumisha Amani (“Promoting Peace and Security for Sustainable Development”) project—an initiative designed to deepen peace building, strengthen community resilience, and unlock inclusive development across Tanzania mainland and Zanzibar. The project seeks to address root causes of conflict, such as unemployment, marginalisation, and weak local governance, while enhancing social cohesion and peace dividends.
