3. Background information

The fundamental mission of UNICEF is to promote the rights of every child, everywhere, in everything the organization does – in programs, in advocacy and in operations. The equity strategy, emphasizing the most disadvantaged and excluded children and families, translates this commitment to children's rights into action. For UNICEF, equity means that all children have an opportunity to survive, develop and reach their full potential, without discrimination, bias or favouritism. To the degree that any child has an unequal chance in life – in its social, political, economic, civic and cultural dimensions – her or his rights are violated. There is growing evidence that investing in the health, education and protection of a society's most disadvantaged citizens, - addressing inequity – not only will give all children the opportunity to fulfil their potential but also will lead to sustained growth and stability of countries. This is why the focus on equity is so vital. It accelerates progress towards realizing the human rights of all children, which is the universal mandate of UNICEF, as outlined in the Convention on the Rights of the Child, while also supporting the equitable development of nations.

In Ethiopia, in the current country program in Ethiopia, 1 July 2025 to 30 June 2030, UNICEF will be promoting humanitarian – nexus – programming, with a focus on issues such as disability inclusion, climate change education, environmental awareness, resilience and peace building. 8. Useful information including living conditions in the country

UNICEF has been present in Ethiopia for 66 years, and its history is closely tied to Ethiopia's gradual transformation into a modern economy with strong aspirations for middle income status. The following information provides helpful insights into how to settle into life in Ethiopia.

Ethiopia is a landlocked country in East Africa bordering Somalia, Eritrea, Sudan, Djibouti and Kenya. It has a population of over 120 million and covers an area of almost 1.104 million km². The capital Addis Ababa was officiated in 1886, and its name was given by Empress Taytu, consort of Menelik II, meaning "New Flower". Ethiopia is mountainous with desert lowlands to the northeast and southeast and has been landlocked since Eritrea, bordering the Red Sea, gained its independence in 1993. The country is an independent Federal Democratic Republic with a President as head of state and a Prime Minister as the head of government. A federation comprising of states with considerable autonomy was established and the first multiparty elections were held in 1995. Addis Ababa is the seat of the UNECA, African Union as well as many Regional and International Organizations.

Religion: The major religions are Christianity (Ethiopian Orthodox Christianity, Protestantism, and Catholicism), and Islam.

Language: Amharic (አማርኛ) is Ethiopia's official language and the most widely spoken. Other languages include (Tigrinya, Oromigna, Guaragigna, Somali, and Arabic). English is also spoken widely in the major cities of the country.

Climate: Ethiopia generally has three seasons, though climate varies across the country. In Addis Ababa, the weather is generally warm and temperate with an annual average of 15.6 °C with temperatures rising mid-day and dropping to cooler levels at night. Across the country there is typically a short rainy season from February to May, followed by a long rainy season from June to mid-September. October to January is characterized by generally dry weather over the bulk of the country. Refer to the Field Office pages for more specific information on regional climates.

General Clothing: Ethiopia is overall a traditional country, and most people dress modestly and conservatively. In Addis Ababa, the fashion sensibilities in the downtown areas are the same as most major cities of the world. When packing for long-term stay in Ethiopia, expect a range of climates, anywhere from very hot and dry (in Semera, Jijiga), to hot and humid (Gambella), or cool and wet (Addis Ababa long rainy season). When traveling outside of Addis Ababa, you are encouraged to dress in keeping with local sensibilities. Refer to the other Field Office pages for such information.

Accommodation facilities: There is a wide range of apartments available in Addis Ababa, including within walking distance of the UN/UNICEF offices.

Security: Addis Ababa is generally safe but one must be vigilant as petty crimes exist like in most cities in the world. UNDSS and UNICEF Security Officers will provide briefing upon arrival to the Fellow.

Office Dress Code: In the Addis Ababa workplace setting, colleagues typically dress business casual, with men wearing trousers and button-down shirts, and women wearing dresses, skirts, or trouser suits with a sleeved top. It's typical to see colleagues wearing shirts and dresses from their own culture and dressing according to the workplace attire of their home country. Overall, bring clothing that makes you feel comfortable, though bear in mind local sensibilities and the expectations for your role.

Currency: The local currency is the Ethiopian Birr (ETB). Notes are issued in five denominations - 5, 10, 50, 100 and 200 birr and there are five different coins of 5, 10, 25, 50 cents and 1 birr. You can withdraw money using Visa/Mastercard from ATMs. Travelers Checks have limited acceptance outside Addis Ababa. Mobile money can be used once registered on relevant service provider platforms. Cash in local currency is readily available in ATMs and banks. USD and other international currencies are not available in ATMs but can be obtained in Bureau de Change or in banks if one opens a USD account. The US dollars can only be drawn from this account when travelling outside the country upon production of evidence of travel/ticket.

Time Zone: The Ethiopian time zone is Eastern Africa Time UTC/GMT + 3 hours). Ethiopians use a 12-hour clock, with one cycle of 1 to 12 — from dawn to dusk — and the other cycle from dusk to dawn. So 7:00 a.m. in East Africa Time, Ethiopia's time zone, is 1:00 (one o'clock) in daylight hours in local Ethiopian time. Working Hours at UNICEF are M-TH 8:30-5:30 and Fri 8:30-2:00 pm.
